SEALINK BRUNY ISLAND

Bruny Island is a 20-minute ferry ride from Kettering, which is about a 35-minute drive south of Hobart, Tasmania. Bruny Island is a wilderness wonderland with nature walks, sandy beaches, tall forests and stunning coastlines. Bruny Island is made up of a North and South Island, connected by a narrow strip called The Neck. SeaLink operates the ferry service from Kettering to Roberts Point on Bruny Island with up to 22 services per day. The MV Mirambeena, MV Moongalba, and the MV Bowen service this route. Two new state of the art vessels will be designed and built, the first will be delivered in December 2019, and the second will be delivered in 2020.
